Excerpt: . dark brown, on each side; the first begins on the front edge of the fifth segment on a line with the spiracles, and passing obliquely up and back, crosses this segment and the greater part of the sixth. The second stripe begins at the wime place on the sixth segment and crosses this and the greater part of the next, and so on with the rest, the seventh and last ending at the base of the caudal horn. The last segment is edged with white, and there are minute circular white dots edged with purplish brown, each with a minute hair, scattered over the upper surface of the body, especially on the anterior segments. The caudal horn, somewhat curved backward, is reddish or bluish and white on the sides, and studded with short black spines, or the whole horn is sometimes black. At...

Reviews

This book is definitely not straightforward to get started on studying but extremely exciting to read. It is really simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
